

St. Cloud named 12th healthiest city in nation

121

5

2

TIMES STAFF REPORT

8:25 a.m. CDT July 18, 2016

(Photo: Times graphic)

Earlier this month, St. Cloud was named the 12th healthiest city in the country by 24/7 Wall Street.

The list detailed 24 other cities in the country, with five being in Minnesota. Rochester was named the healthiest city in the country.

To make the list, 24/7 Wall Street looked at the amount of premature deaths, obesity, adults without health insurance and median household income.

The article said the city is at a slight disadvantage with only 68 percent of residents having access to places for recreation. Even though the city is at a disadvantage, residents are more likely to participate in physical activity than most Americans, according to the article.

MORE STORIES

Baseball brings some normalcy back to Watkins

July 17, 2016, 8:13 p.m.

Afternoon North Central Regional Forecast - July 11, 2016

July 17, 2016, 6:41 p.m.

Death notices

July 17, 2016, 5:04 p.m.